mother@work

Mendas is shortlisted for the prestigious mother@work award!

Mendas Ltd has been shortlisted for the 2008 mother@work award and will be attending the ceremony to be held on June 18th at No. 11 Downing Street.

The mother@work Awards were established to show individuals and employers how straightforward it can be to accommodate the needs of working mums while not detracting from but enhancing business.

Sarah Brown, President of Piggybank Kids and wife of Prime Minister Gordon Brown is once again supporting the awards. Sarah said: "I am delighted to lend my support once again to the mother@work Awards for 2008. Past winners have been inspirational and innovative in their approach to making the lives of working mothers and their families better and I am sure that this year will be no exception. These awards offer a tremendous example of how businesses and working mothers can come together to develop family-friendly policies and working practices, and all the winners deserve our congratulations and praise."

Mendas has made it in the top 3 within the Best People Manager category, in leading by example in offering flexible working opportunities for working parents.

Justin Spray, Mendas Director, says "For me it is about getting the best out of my people, whatever their individual situation. Whether they are new parents or not, I am keen to reach an arrangement that suits both the company and the individual. I want my employees to be happy about working @ Mendas and being happy about coming here in the morning!"
